

TaskFlow is a web-based task management application for Afriland First Bank that allows employees to create, assign, and track tasks across projects. Team members update task statuses and monitor their assigned workload, while project managers oversee team progress and manage assignments. It replaces the current use of email and spreadsheets for internal team coordination.